Democrats Watch Primary In North Carolina As Big Test

By RAYMOND LAHR
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, May 24 (AP) — Democrats are watching Saturday's North Carolina primary as another test between "moderates" and those demanding more aggressive efforts to maintain segregation.

This test involves the primary contests of three House members who refused to sign the "southern manifesto" last winter. Most southerners in Congress signed the manifesto, which called for resisting by all lawful means the Supreme Court decision against racial segregation in schools.

The three North Carolinians who refused to sign were Reps. Harold D. Cooley, Thurmond Chatham and Charles B. Deane. None of the three has advocated ending segregation. However, their failure to sign the manifesto has been the major issue, although not the only one, stressed by their opponents in their campaigns for re-election.

Attacks On Two Fronts
Sen. Estes Kefauver attacked

his rival for the Democratic presidential nomination, Adlai E. Stevenson, on two fronts Wednesday in Florida, where both are seeking votes for their state's May 29 primary. Kefauver denounced as "scurrilous" and "vicious" statements made about him by a Stevenson Florida delegate-candidate, former Gov. Millard F. Caldwell. Kefauver said he was "surprised" Stevenson did not repudiate the statement.

Caldwell, in introducing Stevenson at a Tallahassee appearance, read from an editorial in the Richmond, Va., News-Leader which called Kefauver an "integrationist—a far-left liberal—a psychopant for the Negro and union vote."

Stevenson replied, "I am not responsible for what Governor Caldwell said about Sen. Kefauver and certainly I am not responsible for what the Richmond newspaper said."

In Illinois, 14 state delegates, each having a full vote at the Democratic national convention, held a special meeting Wednesday and agreed to go to the convention pledged rather than support Stevenson, a native son and former governor of their state. The group also rejected the candidacy of Kefauver and reported in a statement that there was "strong sentiment" among them for Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo.).

Others Support Adlai
The 26 other Illinois delegates named in the recent Democratic primary support Stevenson. Delegates with an additional 14 convention votes will be named later at the Illinois state convention.

Political echoes from a highly charged segregation issue have indicated that the South is being pulled in two directions.

The Florida gubernatorial primary and the contest for control of Democratic Party machinery in Texas were regarded by the moderates. But the Alabama primary contest over election of a Democratic national committee was a clear victory for more extreme advocates of segregation.

Three other North Carolinians who refused to sign the House primary opposition Saturday. Those are Reps. Graham A. Barden, Carl T. Durham and F. Eitel Carlyle.

Wear A Poppy Auxiliary Urges Today

"Wear A Poppy — Honor the Dead and Aid the Disabled." This will be the appeal of the American Legion Auxiliary to the people of Murray Saturday when annual Poppy Day will be observed here. Everyone in the city will be asked to wear a Memorial poppy in honor of the nation's war dead, and to make a contribution to the welfare of war living victims, the disabled veterans and needy children of veterans.

Completion of preparations for Poppy Day was announced by Mrs. Robert Young, president of Poppy 73 Unit of the Auxiliary. The Unit's Poppy Committee, Mrs. A. C. Thurston, chairman, has been working for weeks to perfect plans and arrangements. A large corps of volunteer workers has been organized to offer the poppies in all parts of the city.

The poppies have been made for the Auxiliary by disabled veterans of three wars working at veterans hospitals throughout the nation. They are crepe-paper replicas of the famous Flanders Fields poppy, the little wild flower which grew on the battle fields and in the war cemeteries in Europe, and which has been the war memorial flower of the English-speaking world ever since World War I.

"I hope everyone understands the meaning of the poppies and will pin them over their hearts as a proud tribute to those who have given their lives for America," Mrs. Young said. "For the women of the American Legion Auxiliary, Poppy Day is one of the biggest days of the year, the day when we honor the war dead and collect the funds which enable us to continue serving the disabled and needy children every day of the year."

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Pace Visit Son

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Pace, 304 North Twelfth Street, returned last week from a weekend visit with their son, Lt. Jg. Joe Pace, who is stationed at Cecil Naval Air Force Base near Jacksonville, Florida.

Mrs. Pace said she and Mr. Pace were in Jacksonville from Tuesday to Sunday and while they were there they were entertained "royally" by their son and his friends.

After leaving Jacksonville, they drove over to St. Petersburg and Tampa. Shortly after they arrived back in Murray, Joe came to Murray to leave his car. He is planning six months sea duty soon and wanted to return his car to his home before he leaves. He spent the night with his parents and his mother drove him to Fort Campbell the next morning where he boarded a plane to return to Florida. The pilots at the base are allowed to use the jet planes for weekend trips as long as they do not travel further than twelve hundred miles.

A pilot friend of Joe's made the trip to Fort Campbell to carry him back to his base.

An Amusing fact is that Joe and his friend left Fort Campbell in their jet plane at exactly the same time Mrs. Pace left the Fort by car to drive back to Murray and the two fliers reached their destination thirty minutes before Mrs. Pace reached her home in Murray.

At the end of this month, Lt. Jg. Pace will leave for a six month Mediterranean cruise. He said he is looking forward to the cruise because he made the voyage once before and it was a most interesting experience. He said they visited ports in Greece, Spain, Italy and many other places of interest.

One month after he returns from this sea voyage, his tenure of service with the navy will expire and he expects to receive his discharge at that time. Lt. Jg. Pace serves as air intelligence officer.

Agreement Reached By Southern Bell

Agreement was reached Saturday night on a new contract between the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company and the Communications Workers of America affecting about $8,000 non-supervisory employees in nine southern states.

The new contract provides for wage increases ranging up to $5.00 per week, depending upon the job and town classification of the employee.

Other changes in the contract include reclassification of a number of cities and towns for wage purposes.

The new contract is effective on May 20. It is for one year but will extend beyond this initial period unless terminated by 60-day notice by either party.

Frank M. Malone, personnel vice president of Southern Bell said the pay increases are in line with the upward wage movement which extensive surveys show has occurred in southeastern cities and towns.

"The increases are necessary to fulfill our basic wage policy. That is to keep the pay of Southern Bell employees in favorable comparison with wage levels prevailing in the communities where they work and live."

Mr. Malone said the wage increases and the other changes in the contract will add approximately $9,000,000 a year to the cost of providing telephone service in the company's nine state area.

In Kentucky the added cost will amount to $665,000.

Ike Calls For 18 Point Must Legislation

WASHINGTON, May 24 (AP) — President Eisenhower called on Congress today to speed action on an 18-point "must" legislative program calling for better schools and highways and a huge foreign aid program.

The White House, in disclosing the priority legislation list, emphasized that Mr. Eisenhower "is not giving up" on any of his legislative recommendations.

But Assistant Press Secretary Murray Snyder said the 18 measures are those which the President considers "very important." He said Mr. Eisenhower hoped to see "favorable action" by Congress on all of the listed items before adjournment.

Congressional leaders are shooting for adjournment in July. One of the 18 items was the new farm bill, which Congress sent to the White House Wednesday.

Snyder explained that the list had not been brought up to date since it was taken from the President's desk Wednesday.

The President's must program: Foreign Aid: Approval of his $4.9 billion foreign aid request. The House Foreign Affairs Committee has just lopped $1.1 billion off the program.

Schools: Enactment of his recommendation for $250 million a year in federal grants over a four-year period to build badly needed schools. The bill has been bogged down in the House under the threat of an anti-segregation amendment by Rep. Adam Clayton Powell (D-N.Y.).

Highways: Enactment of multi-billion dollar federal highway construction bill. The program has passed the House and has been approved by the Senate Finance Committee.

Mail Rates: Enactment of his recommendation for a substantial increase in mail rates to overcome the heavy operating deficits of the Post Office Department.

Welfare: Approval of housing bill calling for $5,000 public housing units per year; approval of the administration's health program, including $250,000,000 grant program to aid medical schools.

National Security: Approval of military career incentives legislation. The principal bills listed were medical care of military dependents and benefits for military survivors.

Economic: The farm bill, which has been sent to the White House, the highway program; farm credit legislation, and the rural development program.

Hawaiian Statehood: which hasn't made any headway in Congress.

Government: Executive pay boosts in top grades for Civil Service and presidential appointees.

Nehru Now Interested In Algeria

By CHARLES M. MCCANN
United Press Staff Correspondent

Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru of India has added the Algerian situation to the long list of his diplomatic interests.

He has offered a detailed proposal to bring France and the Algerian nationalists together to end the increasingly dangerous revolt.

Nehru made the proposal in his role of Asian "neutralist" peace maker.

In the same role, he is likely to have something to say soon about the breakdown of Singapore independence talks in London.

Chief Minister David Marshall, who led the Singapore delegation in London, stopped off in New Delhi on his way home to ask Nehru's advice about the next step.

That he will get it, there can be no doubt. Nehru is an outspoken man with advice on world problems.

He is also a very influential man in parts of Asia and Africa, two continents which are emerging from "colonialism."

"Leader Of Asian Democracy"
Marshall, arriving in New Delhi from London, called Nehru "the leader of Asian democracy."

Nehru is unlikely to decline that title. He assumed the position of "neutralist" remaining aloof from the West-East cold war, as soon as India got its independence in 1950.

He took the leading part in trying to form the so-called neutral bloc of Asian - African countries.

No one can doubt that Nehru is a man of good will, and that he earnestly seeks peace and world betterment.

One trouble, however, is that the military alliances which he opposes are those the western allies have formed in defense against Communist aggression.

Another is that he seems inclined to list Soviet Russia and Communist China as among the "anti-colonial" countries.

For instance, Nehru does not call Lithuania, Latvia, Estonia and Tibet colonies. When Russia and Red China wanted those countries, they just moved their armies in and took over.

Proposal Seems Reasonable
However, Nehru's proposal on Algeria seems to be a reasonable one at first glance. He called for a cease-fire, and for French recognition of Algeria as "a national entity" and "personality."

He asked that Algerians and French settlers in Algeria be made equal. Finally he called for formal negotiations between France and the rebels.

It is possible that Nehru will advise Marshall to keep cool for the present in hope that the Singapore talks can be reopened.

But in any event, Nehru's influence in Asia and Africa, including the Arab nations which are supporting the Algerian rebels.

Nehru probably will have some thoughts to express on Singapore when he attends the British Commonwealth prime ministers conference in London late next month.

He undoubtedly will have a lot of advice to give President Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles too, when he visits Washington early in July.

Urges Free Election In Satellite Nations

WASHINGTON, May 24 (AP) — Rep. Wayne L. Hays (D-Ohio) today urged Secretary of State John Foster Dulles to make free elections in the satellite countries a prerequisite to any visit to the United States by Russian leaders.

Russian Premier Nikita Khrushchev have been angling for a U. S. invitation for several months.

The Flushing, Ohio, Democrat told the United Press that he wrote Dulles urging that the Russians, before they are invited to this country, be asked to back up their current peace talk "with deeds."

"I urged the secretary to make free elections in the satellite countries a prerequisite to the Communists' visit," he said.

"Khrushchev recently called for the liberation of the African colonies," Hays said, "but there can be no peace until Central Europe is free."

Hays said that Hungary, for example, is still ruled by Mathias Rakosi, a reactionary pro-Soviet dictator. He said that in a free election Rakosi, who is first secretary of the Communist Party, would be defeated.

Two spectacular roses, White Bouquet and Golden Showers, have won the coveted All-America Rose Selections Award for 1957, according to an announcement by the A.A.R.S. This Award is the highest in the flower world and brings the total number of rose varieties which have won it to 45.

The two 1957 winners competed against the finest new roses in the world in twenty-two test gardens located in various sections of the United States.

Golden Showers is a vivid daffodil yellow climbing rose.

White Bouquet is a Floribunda of sparkling white.

Each of the winners was presented for two years in the All-America test gardens. Preceding these tests, hybridizers worked more than six years in their search to find varieties equal to the requirements of the All-America testing system. While two Climbing Hybrid Teas have won the A.A.R.S. Awards in the past, Golden Showers is first to win the national Award for a Climbing and Pillar rose since 1941.

Annual Awards are made on the basis of a total of scores compiled by impartial judges who use a uniform point system of scoring. They judge the new and still unnamed varieties while observing them under actual growing conditions during the two-year testing period.

The test gardens for the trials are located at universities, public gardens and nurseries in various sections of the country so that entries may be tested and judged under widely varying climatic and soil conditions.

Thirteen qualities, each weighted in its importance to the ideal rose, are considered in judging new varieties. Floriferousness, vigor, bud form, foliage, stem and other desirable rose characteristics must be present in a high degree for a rose to meet the exacting A.A.R.S. standards.

White Bouquet is an enchanting white Floribunda with sparkling 1 to 5 inch flowers and contrasting rusted dark green foliage. The flowers are garden-like and open fully with petals spreading to form opulent white blooms with a sweet spicy fragrance.

As the flower slowly unfolds, the center petals remain upright, offering an unusually graceful appearance in every stage from unfolding tight bud through to the fully opened flower. The buds are light cream and open into pure white flowers.

When the center petals of White Bouquet finally separate and open to the lush white bloom, the small circle of golden yellow stamens gives an additional note of charm. Seen against the background of the dark green foliage, the effect is one of cool freshness.

The blooms are constantly produced both in clusters and individual flowers on a plant which grows to a height of 18 to 24 inches. As White Bouquet grows in a bushy form with a spread equal to its height, it is wonderful for bedding. Because it is one of the medium sized Floribundas, White Bouquet is an exciting addition for modern gardens where it is ideal for border plantings and all the other versatile uses for which Floribundas are naturally adaptive.

Although other Floribundas have previously won the All-America Award, White Bouquet is the first white one to come into the A.A.R.S. royal family. Its constant blooming habit will make it a much-used source for cut flowers.

With its ease of care and its resistance to ordinary diseases, White Bouquet is destined to become a great favorite with gardeners everywhere.

Golden Showers has the unique distinction of being the first Pillar and Climbing rose in 16 years to win the coveted national All-America Rose Award. Since 1941, no other rose in this class has combined sufficient beauty, hardiness and flowering qualities to win this award. Its large four to five inch vivid deep yellow roses occur in great profusion in the early spring. Because the variety is extremely vigorous, the new canes continue to produce many flowers during the entire summer. And, the final display of exquisitely formed daffodil yellow flowers in the spring through the Summer and Fall is truly impressive. The deep yellow buds are long pointed and the petals have good substance. Since the flowers are on very long beautifully bronze colored stems, rather free of thorns, they are well adapted for cut flower use.

The Pillar rose is defined as one which has canes sufficiently strong to support itself without staking or trellising. Golden Showers easily grows to a height of 6 to 8 feet in one season. The foliage is large, leathery, glossy and highly resistant to mildew. It abundantly clothes the plant clear to the base, even on older plants.

Depending on the treatment, the plant may be grown in three ways: 1-By allowing the canes to remain unpruned for 2 to 3 years, Golden Showers may be grown as a shrub 8 to 10 feet high. The tops of the canes arch over gracefully and the abundance of flowers with this method of growing is breathtaking each Spring. 2-By pruning away the 2 year old wood canes at the base of the plant each Spring and heading back the year old canes to about 5 feet, a well balanced symmetrical plant may be obtained. 3-The canes may be trained against a building or trellis as a regular climber, arching them over so as to induce the

Arabs Still Want War Says Chief

By ELIAH SIMON
 United Press Staff Correspondent
 TEL AVIV, Israel, May 8 (U)
 Israeli Premier David Ben-Gurion said today the Arab states still want war with Israel despite the peacemaking efforts of United Nations Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld.

The Premier said the "basic danger" of war still exists between Israel and Egypt, Syria, Lebanon and Jordan. He again called for an Arab-Israeli "summit" conference.

"There is no sign whatever that any of these states really want peace," he said in an interview with the United Press.

"Premier Wants Arms
 Ben-Gurion spoke during the first private meeting he has had with a newsman since Hammarskjöld flew to the area last month and worked out a series of separate cease-fire agreements to prevent the opposing Arab and Jewish factions from plunging into total war.

The Israeli Premier stressed the need for arms and again raised the issue of Israel's failure to receive arms from the western Allies, while the "unhappy fact" is that Egypt and Syria have been getting weapons from Communist and western nations.

"Without a balance of forces
 between the Arab states and Israel, it is difficult to believe there will be no outbreak of war," Ben-Gurion said.

He "hoped" Hammarskjöld's mission had been "useful," but did not appear optimistic about the cease fire.

"Chies Arab Attacks
 Ben-Gurion charged that Arab attacks since then cast doubt on "either the willingness or the capacity of the Egyptian dictator (Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser)
 to maintain order in the Gaza Strip" which divides Israel and Egypt.

"The possibility of peace with Egypt depends on whether the Egyptian authorities are really sincere."

Personnel Is Needed In Missile Work

The need for personnel in the development of guided missiles by the United States Air Force is greater than ever, according to
 T. Sgt. W. C. Sandefur, local Air Force Recruiter.

The guided Missile Program, now a major factor in the maintenance of peace in the world, has been emphasized recently by leaders of the freedom-loving nations.

Speaking in Detroit, Michigan,

Secretary of the Air Force Donald Quarles stated, "We have the Maikder ground-to-ground tactical missile deployed in overseas squadrons, and our newer type inter-ceptor planes are being equipped with the Falcon air-to-air missiles.
 We are also developing three forms of intercontinental missiles
 — the Snark, a high performance
 pilotless aircraft type; the Navaho, a more advanced high performance missile, and ballistic missiles of the very high altitude, very high speed, rocket type."

In the Guided Missile Career
 Field, airmen operate and maintain guided missiles. Elements of these systems may be located in aircraft posted along the route of the missile or may be on the ground to cause the missile to follow a predetermined course or to obey the commands of operational personnel.

Personnel in this career field also operate missile guidance and instrumentation systems. This includes the installation and maintenance of electronic and other equipment which pertain to the guidance of automatic and present missiles, and the equipment which pertains to the tracking of missiles in flight including photographic, optical and electronic data computing equipment.

Prior-service personnel in this area are urged to contact T. Sgt.
 W. C. Sandefur for more information, as the Guided Missile Career Field has received a high priority from the Air Force, and there are currently many openings for former airmen who have had training in this field.

Young men in this area who are interested in the Guided Missile Program of the United States Air Force are invited to contact T. Sgt.
 W. C. Sandefur in the USAF
 Recruiting Office located in room
 318 of the Post Office Building, Paducah, Kentucky.

OAK WILT DAMAGE. This oak tree, in a Kentucky forest, shows the effect of the fungus oak wilt. Notice the leaves have nearly all dropped off, leaving the branches bare—even though it is summertime. Oak wilt has been noted in a few instances in the state; Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station foresters are trying to plan their fight in case the trouble becomes widespread, as it has in other states.

CHAPTER 42
 VAL MOVED over to a lamp on the veranda and read the letter Eileen had written to Bruce shortly before she was killed:
 "Darling, I'm writing this in a terrific hurry just in case Mummy should do something stupid and publish the announcement of my engagement to Dirk. I hope to Heaven she doesn't, but you know Mummy. And the poor dear is so delighted about this phony engagement she's like a dog wagging six tails. You know her heart's been acting up lately, and the doctor implores me to do everything I can to keep her calmed down, until the danger is past.
 We know what is really upsetting her is so, darling—her terror that I'll dash off and marry you, which I shall do directly I'm twenty-one. But for the moment I've hit on the bright idea of a pretended engagement between Dirk and myself. He's always been a good friend of mine, as you know, though he isn't one scrap in love with me. He has agreed to let me tell Mummy that he and I are engaged. And goodness, it was the best tonic she could have had. She literally got out of her sick bed and almost danced a jig.
 I think the main reason Dirk consented to this plan is that he's always been really fond of Mummy and is concerned about her health. You know he lost his own mother when he was a kid and Mummy and he have always understood each other. He has understood her much better than I ever have, but then Dirk is the sort who always makes allowances for everyone. If he likes people, he doesn't seem to mind
 how badly they behave.
 Anyhow this is just to warn you that should you hear anything about this fake engagement, there's nothing to it, just a device to keep Mummy quiet until we can be secretly married.
 You know, my darling, my very own darling, I'd never marry anyone in the world but you.
 Yours always,
 Eileen

There were tears in Val's eyes
 as she finished reading the letter, but she made no comment.
 After a few minutes Bruce cleared his throat rather noisily and said, "That letter alters everything for me, as you see.
 I realize I owe Hanson an apology."
 He looked toward her. "Will you apologize to him for me, Val?"
 She nodded. "If you want me to, I know just how you're feeling, Bruce," she added slowly.
 "Don't show Cynthia that letter," Val said impulsively. "Try to forget it."
 "I shall never be able to forget it, Val. That's asking the impossible," he said finally.
 The Carraways drifted out on the veranda, and they all said goodbye. John and Jane asked Bruce to drop in and see them whenever he had the time. He thanked them and left the house.
 The small ship, half-passenger,
 half-cargo, was sailing down Southampton Sound. It was raining, and Val, gazing through the porthole, didn't mind the rain. Dirk was meeting her. She had his radiogram crumpled in her apron pocket.
 She saw him immediately the ship docked. He was pacing up and down the dock in the gray, persistent rain. It was easy to distinguish him from the others who were also awaiting the "rival of the ship. He was so tall and thin, and in his closely belted raincoat he looked almost emaciated.
 She saw that his eyes were searching the passengers — the faces of the passengers — gathered on the main deck intently and eagerly, but when apparently he couldn't find her face among them, she saw a look of blank dismay cloud his face.
 Suddenly she sensed his disappointment as though it has been her own personal hurt, and she knew she had to do something about it. She went quickly down to her own cabin and slipped a white raincoat over her uniform.
 Then she ran up the stairs to the purser's office. He was a nice elderly man, a good friend of

Nurses Also Teach The Patient

If you were asked: "What is a nurse's job?", you'd probably reply without hesitation: "Caring for the sick." But did it ever occur to you that in some cases teaching the sick is also an important part of nursing?

This is particularly true of tuberculosis, a disease that usually requires a drastic change in the patient's living habits. Today, because of the effectiveness of modern methods of treatment, more and more victims of TB are living longer. While the threat of death from the disease has declined, the possibility of relapse — of another bout with the disease — is faced by almost all TB patients. Relapse can, however, be avoided if they learn to adjust their lives to their special problems.

Here the nurse comes in as a teacher. She helps her patients understand their stubborn and long-term disease. She teaches them the precautions they must take to keep it under control. When patients leave the hospital, their future health and well-being depend upon how well they follow medical advice. If the nurse has done a good job of teaching, they will have a much better chance for a healthy and productive future.

The importance of the nurse's teaching extends beyond the individual patient. It affects the patient's family and all those with whom he comes into contact. If the TB patient does not care for himself properly and suffers relapse as a result, he endangers the health of those around him. The nurse in her teaching job helps protect the health of the family and the entire community as well as that of the individual TB patient.
